First order from a global high-frequency trading customer in the United States

Strasbourg (France), 22 December 2021 - 2CRSi (EPA: 2CRSi, ISIN code: FR0013341781), a designer and manufacturer of high-performance energy-efficient IT servers, announced it has received the first order from a prominent high-frequency trading firm in the US.

A new entry to the 2CRSi customer list, this firm specializes in financial trading with a scientific approach. Founded 20 years ago, it is headquartered in New York City, has a global presence and is a leader within the financial trading community.

Upon the terms of the award, 2CRSi is to deliver 80 immersion-ready high-performance servers, based on AMD EPYC™ Milan processor. These servers contribute additional server capacity to operate the customer's proprietary research cluster.

With this new win, 2CRSi demonstrates the relevance of its high-density, energy efficient, immersion servers in a very sophisticated field, where performance and reliability are critical.

David Burke, who joined 2CRSi in August 2021 as Senior VP North America Sales, confirms: "Being selected by a Wall Street high-frequency trading firm is a clear recognition of the difference our high-performance, immersion servers make. We are looking forward to working with their team of leading experts in trading technology in the future."
